

Drunkards Cured Secretly

Any Lady Can Do It at Home—Costs Nothing to Try.

A new tasteless discovery which can be given in tea, coffee or food. Heavily endorsed by W. C. T. U. and all temperance workers. It does its work so silently and surely that while the devoted wife, mother or daughter looks on the drunkard is reclaimed even against his will and without his knowledge. Send your name and address to Dr. J. W. Haines, 283 Glenn Bldg., Cincinnati, O., and he will mail a trial package of Golden Specific free, to show how easy it is to cure drunkards with this remedy.

A WIFE'S MESSAGE

Cured Her Husband of Drinking.

Write Her Today and She Will Gladly Tell You How She Did It.

My husband was a hard drinker for over 20 years and had tried in every way to stop but could not do so. I at last cured him by a simple home remedy which any one can give secretly. I want every one who has drunkness in their family to know of this and if they are sincere in their desire to cure this disease, I will write to me. I will tell them just what the remedy is. My address is Mrs. Margaret Anderson, Box 247, Ellensburg, N. Y. I am sincere in this offer. I have sent this valuable information to thousands of people to-day. As I have nothing whatever to sell, I want no money.

MUST SET FOOD FOR DEAD TWIN BEFORE HE WILL EAT.

Odd Case for Experts in Peculiar Actions of Four-Year-Old Boy.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Nov. 12.—Abnormal development of the brain is believed to account for the peculiar behavior of Howard Winham, four years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Winham, of No. 121 Brook avenue, almost since his birth. Howard was born a twin, and his brother lived only three days. His parents declare that Howard was aware of the death of his twin brother, because of his strange actions at the time. He is said to have cried and moaned for several days.

As he grew older the boy acted as if he thought the dead brother was still alive. Even now he refuses to sleep in the afternoon and at night unless he is placed in a double bed. When he awakes he reaches over to the other side of the bed, as if he expected to find his brother lying there. At each disappointment he cries bitterly. He will not eat unless a plate, knife and fork, a glass of water and food are placed for the dead child.

Several physicians who have examined Howard continue to puzzle over the case. Lack of money has prevented the boy's father from taking him to specialists, but he expects to be able to do so as soon as the result of a suit he has pending against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for injuries received while working in the Harlem river yards on October 16, 1904, has been settled. Winham was under a locomotive drawing the car when a mail train in the cab started it. Four of Winham's ribs were broken. The injured man at once brought suit against the railroad through his lawyer, George Bristol, of No. 29 Broad street.

MEADOW GOLD BUTTER.

Won First Prize and Gold Medal at the St. Louis Exposition.

The Meadow Gold Creamery Company, Charlotte, N. C., has been awarded first prize and gold medal for the superior excellence of Meadow Gold butter. The judges took into consideration the wonderful air-tightness of the package in which the butter is packed, thus bringing it to the consumer absolutely fresh, pure and sweet, and the beauty of the design. The awarding of this prize and medal is not surprising, for it is in keeping with the progressive policy of the company. Meadow Gold is made in the world's greatest and cleanest creamery, where the purest and sweetest cream, perfectly ripened and carefully pasteurized. Only the most approved scientific methods are employed in the making.

NO MORE AUTOS FOR ILLINOIS

Bubble Wagon Disappoints the State Commissioners at the World's Fair.

Consigned to the scrap heap and out of service for some time to come is the automobile which for a brief time was the pride of the Illinois Commission at the World's Fair.

The joy of automobile which the members of the Illinois Commission thought would be theirs is no more. The ecstasy which these men who guide the destinies of the State at the World's Fair thought they would have from that sport failed to come. They are content to walk and ride on street cars and the interurban just like any other visitor to the World's Fair.

Unfortunately, as some of the Commissioners declare it has proven, the Illinois Commission had the pleasure of a ride in an automobile when Governor Yates inspected the State exhibit several months ago. It was great, they declared, this way of getting around the grounds, and at the worst the thing, it was decided to purchase one.

Then the troubles of the Illinois Commission began. The machine was continually needing the services of an expert repairer. It was seldom on hand when any of the Commissioners wanted to ride in it, and it was even known to break down when some of the Commissioners were in the car.

NEARLY A SUFFICIENCY OF "MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME."

State Building Employees Estimate That They Have Heard the Air 8,000 Times This Summer.

Upon the very conservative estimate of three times every hour, it is stated that "My Old Kentucky Home" has been played on the piano at the Kentucky building at the World's Fair, nearly 8,000 times since the opening of the Exposition. Nearly every visitor who knows how to play on the piano rattled off that familiar tune, until now those connected with the building have almost become unacquainted with the melody.

Kentuckians at the building have heard that popular air rendered with all of its different variations. Sometimes it has been played with feeling, at other times mechanically. Those at the building were delighted at first at the interest shown in the Kentucky air, and while yet it could not be said that it was a nuisance, it has become so.

Those connected with the building cannot tell how many times the tune has been played, but they estimate that it has been played more than 8,000 times since the opening of the Exposition. It is interesting to note that the building is the furniture of the room, including the table, where "Foster" wrote "My Old Kentucky Home." Foster was a native of Pennsylvania, but composed the song at the home of Judge John Bowman at Bardonia, Ky., while on a visit to the Blue-Grass State. As souvenirs of the building, copies of the song have been given, and more than 2,000 copies have thus been distributed.

Developing Mexico.

Claims are made as follows by the International Lumber and Development Company of Mexico: The company owns 2,800 acres of land, which is valued at $2,800,000. While the land and the woods on the property are valued at $2,800,000, with these valuable assets, the company is conservatively capitalized, having only 20,000 shares of stock of a par value of $20 each. On this basis each share of stock represents fourteen acres of land. A small part of the capital stock is being offered to the public on the installment plan. This stock is guaranteed 5 per cent a year dividend payer. The success of other companies engaged in the development of property, one of which has paid a dividend of 45 per cent, and another dividend of 31 per cent, augurs well for the future of the International company.

The International Company has 400 men employed, and at the present time a cargo of 20 tons of mahogany is en route to New York. Not only will the company cut the wood on the property, but on the cleared land tropical fruits will be raised. The company will also raise live stock.

Attention is directed to an advertisement on another page of today's Republic.

W. H. Armstrong, ex-United States Senator, is president of the company, and Colonel A. M. McClure, former editor of the Philadelphia Times, holds the office of vice president. Other leading interests in the company are equally well known.

A branch office has been opened in St. Louis, in charge of Matthews & Moore, general agents, in 210-211 Old Fellows' building.

Excitement Over Trip Causes Traveler to Jump Into River.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Nov. 12.—Made crazy by the long railroad trip from Denver, which he left in full possession of all his faculties, Michael McHale, 30, stepped off a train at the Lackawanna station in Hoboken, N. J., and jumped into the North River.

Detective Beatty, who was standing near the slip, threw a rope with a life-preserver on the end of it, into the water, which McHale grasped. Beatty pulled him out. McHale raved violently and was taken to Hoboken Police Headquarters, where he was placed in a strait-jacket and City Physician Arlitz was called.

Doctor Arlitz examined McHale, and when told that a ticket for Queenstown and $40 had been found in his pockets, said: "There is no doubt that the long journey from Denver and the anticipation of the trip across the ocean caused McHale to become mentally unbalanced. I have seen several cases like this before. What needs is a few weeks' rest and then the ocean trip will cure him."

McHale was to sail on the Cedric, but he will be held until he becomes sane again.

THIS COUPLE ARE PARENTS OF FIFTEEN CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. Eckhard Wind Have Nine Living Whose Ages Range From 27 to 2 Years—Father Says Rearing a Large Family Is Profitable and Mother Declares While There Is Much Hard Work in Rearing Little Ones the Joy and Pleasure More Than Repays.

MR. AND MRS. ECKHARD WIND. Who have reared a family of fifteen children, nine of whom are still living.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckhard Wind, living at the Walther Hotel, No. 688 Delmar avenue, are on record as having probably reared the largest family in St. Louis. They have fifteen children, ranging in ages from 27 to 2 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wind were married August 21, 1878, and the first child was born to them during the first year of their marriage. Since the advent of Eckhard Jr., the family cradle has been rocked to soothe a sleep a new occupant at frequent intervals.

Nine are living, and each of them is a strong and healthy counterpart of their robust, healthy parents.

Had they all lived their ages would have been as follows: Eckhard Jr., 27; August, 25; Harry, 24; Clara, 22; Emma, 21; Arthur, 19; Lulu, 17; William, 15; Oscar, 13; Edwin, 11; Lydia, 9; Carl, 7; Walter, 5; Esther, 3; and Laura, 2.

Harry is the oldest living child, and is 24 years old, while his sister, Laura, a straight and sturdy little youngster of 2 years, is the baby. Harry, Clara, Lulu,

RESCUERS TERRIFIED CHINESE SLAVE GIRL

Frightened by Detectives Who Came to Her Aid, Young Woman Leaps Out of High Window to Escape.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Frightened by the appearance of two detectives, whom she could think of only as "white devils," a 16-year-old Chinese girl jumped from the third story of her home to the roof of an adjoining building this morning, ran down the stairs, and was fast getting away when overtaken by one of the sleuths, who dropped the girl's tactics of jumping. Her 15-year-old sister was afraid to jump and the second detective had no hard work to do.

"Rescue me or I will make myself dead," read a note which was received by Mrs. Wheeler at the Presbyterian Mission on Sacramento street at 10 o'clock, and hurrying to be signed by the older girl, Ng Shing Quai, it said also that she and her sister, Ng Tin Que, were about to be sold into slavery in Los Angeles. Mrs. Wheeler communicated with police headquarters and detectives were dispatched to effect the rescue.

The girls are the daughters of Ng Hock

Chow, who conducts a general merchandise store at No. 886 Clay street. When the detectives arrived at their home at No. 811 Clay street at 7 o'clock the girls were already up and dressed. Neither one can talk English, and the only idea they could form was that the white men were about to steal them. They therefore, tried to get away, but only the older girl dared to risk the jump from the window. Mrs. Wheeler and the two girls waited at police headquarters until the arrival of Captain of Detectives Burnett, and then it developed that the girls were not written by either girl, and was the result of an attempt of their father's enemy, Ng Seng Sang, to cast suspicion on the family name, saying that the father had sold the girls into slavery. Consequently, the girls were allowed to go home.

the date on the shell, and the entries are as follows: In 1874, 1876, 1879, 1880, 1881, 1882 and 1884.

On the latter date Mr. Stadden carried the terrapin to a spot near Stephensons, two and one-half miles from home, and turned it loose. Mr. Stadden has always held to the theory that terrapin and turtles will try to wander back to the spot of their birth, and to test the theory the terrapin was taken to the Stephensons. That was twenty years ago, and during the two decades Mr. Stadden never saw a terrapin. Turning the terrapin over he was amazed to find that it was his long-lost pet. Twenty years had passed, the initials placed there from time to time, grew larger with the terrapin, but as distinct almost as when he first saw it.

In order to get back to its usual feeding place under the mulberry tree from Stephensons, the terrapin had to cross several streams, traverse wooded bluffs, tracherous ravines and cross fields. Twenty years had not seemed to make the journey of two and one-half miles, but, guided by instinct, the little terrapin had at last reached home.

WOOLEY DECLARED CRAZY.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Nov. 12.—Frank Hafele of No. 217 Broadway, Williamsburg, repeatedly arrested for forcing attentions on 15-year-old Teresa Lichtenstein of No. 88 Grand street, Williamsburg, and threatening to kill her, was declared to be insane.
